Date	16 October 2026
Format	Video call
CF3	Simon Damborg, President
iF3	Laurent Selleslaghs, Board

WHY WE MET

CF3 builds and hosts the platform iF3 and its member federations use for federation websites, the world ranking, event information and the register of technical officials. This session reviewed where the platform stands and the plans for developing technical officials.

WHAT WE TALKED ABOUT

A walkthrough of the platform: federation websites, the world ranking, events synced from Circle21, the technical officials' register with certificates that can be checked by QR code, and a form-based SportAccord submission. Moving iF3's register of technical officials from its old system onto the platform, with each official invited to confirm their own record. Adding the 2026 Competition Rulebook and Movement Standards to the platform, and a consistent visual style for movement standard images. The Class 1 and Class 2 certification pathway, aimed at the 2027 season, and a national model in which each federation develops its own technical officials to iF3 standards.

WHAT IT MEANS FOR MEMBERS

Canadian technical officials train and certify on the same system iF3 uses internationally, and the national model iF3 is developing fits CF3's own focus on growing its officials' programme.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT

iF3 plans to introduce the national development programme for technical officials at the World Championships General Assembly. The 2026 rulebook and standards documents are being added to the platform. Officials on the register will be invited to confirm their records once iF3 confirms the address the invitations come from. CF3 will ask for time at the General Assembly to present the platform to member federations.
